John,

Just thought I would share some insight with an interesting sale we just made. California is in the initial stages of a water shortage. One of our people called on the general manager of a BMW dealership. After the demo, the G.M. purchased three units, one for the showroom, one for new cars in their lot and one for the used car dept. Now they do not have to wash their cars down on a regular basis. The show room unit is also being used in the detail dept. I'm also trying to work out on arrangement where they can give a unit away for free to entice the sale of vehicles.

Hope the above is a little different from the norm.
